THE VIETNAM "DEMARCATION LINE"

I. BOUNDARY BRIEF

The Viet-Nam "Demarcation Line" is not an international boundary in the traditional sense; rather it is a provisional military demarcation line. As such, it should never be shown on official maps by the standard symbol for an international boundary.

The line represents the partition effected by the 1954 Geneva Conference which brought an end to the hostilities between the French Union - Vietnamese forces and those of the Viet Minh. The "demarcation line" is approximately 47.25 miles long.

II. BACKGROUND

French Indochina consisted of Tonkin, Annam, and Cochin China--which together made up Viet-Nam--and Cambodia and Laos. At the end of the war, it was anticipated that these entities would form a federated part of the newly constituted French Union. France, however, was never completely able to reassert its authority and over a period of a few years granted independence to the three states. Moreover, the area in Tonkin over which the French had regained control after the war was slowly lost to the Communist Viet Minh. After the surrender of Dien Bien Phu, an international conference was held in Geneva to resolve the difference and end the war. One of the results of the conference was the temporary partition of Viet-Nam approximately along the 17th parallel of north latitude.

III. TREATY

According to the Geneva Conference of 1954 and the Central Mixed Commission for Vietnam, the provisional military demarcation line and its associated demilitarized zone were described as follows:

PORANT STATUT DE LA ZONE DEMILITARISEE

AVANT-PROPOS

La Presente decision, etablie dans le cadre des Articles 1, 3, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9 et 32 de l'Accord sur la cessation des hostilities, du paragraphe I de l'annexe a cet Accord, et de la decision conjointe No 6 signee a TRUNG-GIA le 13 Aout 1954, apporte des precision sur les modalites d' application de ces textes.

I. LIMITES GEOGRAPHIQUES DE LA ZONE DEMILITARISEE -

1%- Ligne de démarcation militaire provisoire -

- a)- Le trace de la ligne de démarcation militaire provisoire est défini comme suit, d'EST en OUEST :
 - l'embouchure du SONG BEN HAI (rivière de CUA-TUNG) et le cours de cette rivière (qui prend dans la montagne le nom de RAO THANH) jusqu'au village de BO-HO-SU; puis le parallèle de BO-HO-SU jusqu'à la frontière LAO-VIETNAMIENNE.

Le haut des piquets devra etre a 1 m. 70 au dessus du sol. A l'Est de THANH KHE et de THUY BA HA respectivement pour les limites Sud et Nord de la Zone demilitarisee, ces piquets seront plantes a des intervalles variables suivant le terrain (de 500 m. a 300 m.) a l'ouest de ces deux villages, un jalonnement kilometrique (ordre de grandeur) accroche aux points caracteristiques du terrain sera suffisant. Aux carrefours importants, les piquets seront remplaces par des pancartes reproduisant en toutes lettres l'inscription ci-dessus. Chacune des parties assureront la confection et la mise en place des piquets et pancartes la concernant.²

IV. SUMMARY

The provisional military demarcation line runs through a demilitarized zone, varying in width from less than four miles to almost six. The boundaries of the zone were delimited in the quoted Bylaw (Portant...) of September 15, 1954. East of the village of Thuy Ba Ha on the northern boundary and east of Thanh Khe on the southern boundary, the zone has been marked by wooden poles at intervals of 300 to 500 meters. Although zone boundary

² See Appendix I for an English translation and the attached map for the proper representation.

The provisional military demarcation line, as stated before, is not to be considered as a normal international boundary. As a result the standard symbol for an international boundary is not to be used to represent the line on official cartography.

markers were to have been erected at one kilometer intervals west of these villages, there have been no reports to indicate that this work has been accomplished.

A number of villages, concentrated mostly in the eastern part, i.e., the lower Ben Hai river valley, lie within the demilitarized zone. Residents of the zone are permitted to cross the lines at authorized crossing points.

In view of the dim prospects for reunification which exist at present, the division of Viet-Nam along the provisional military demarcation line will probably continue in the foreseeable future. Disputes over the alignment are unlikely even though the western segment follows no visible physical or human boundary. The sparse population and relative inaccessibility of the western area lessen the likelihood of disputes.

Joint Central Commission

RULING NO. II
(Annex I: Police)
(Annex 2: Navigation on the Song Ben Hai)

DETERMINING THE STATUS OF THE DEMILITARIZED ZONE

FOREWARD

This Ruling, issued in accordance with Articles 1, 3, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9 and 32 of the Agreement on the cessation of hostilities, with paragraph I of the Annex to that Agreement, and with the attached Ruling No. 6, signed at Trung-Gia on Aug. 13, 1954, gives precise details regarding the procedure for carrying out these texts.

I. Geographic Boundaries of the Demilitarized Zone.

1. The provisional military line of demarcation.

- a. The provisional military line of demarcation shall be drawn as follows, from east to west: the mouth of the Song Ben Hai (river Cua-Tung), and the course of that river (which takes the name of Rao Thanh in the mountains) as far as the village of Bo-Ho-Su; then the parallel of Bo-Ho-Su as far as the boundary between Laos and Viet-Nam.
- b. Along that part of the provisional military line of demarcation which follows the course of the Song Ben Hai, clearly visible signs bearing the legend "Provisional Military Line of Demarcation" in two languages, as follows--

"Ligne de démarcation militaire provisoire"

"Goi tuyen quan su tam thoi"

will be placed at the crossing points specified in paragraph VI, by each of the Parties on their respective sides of the river.

Along that part of the line of demarcation which lies between Bo-Ho-Su and the Lao-Vietnamese boundary, the same signs shall be posted at intervals of approximately one kilometer, at prominent points in the terrain (crossing points, high points, hills, etc.).

2. Boundaries of the demilitarized zone.

- a. The demilitarized zone shall be bounded on the north and the south by lines called lignes de sécurité [security lines] (map on scale of 1/25,000, No. 18 E & W; 19, 20 E & W, and 21 W, map on scale of 1/100,000, 119 E & W, attached).

Northern Boundary:

i. An East-West line running from the mouth of the river (2.8 km. north of Cua-Tung) (251-850) to the village of Yen-Giu-Bac, passing direct to the villages of Tran Trai Thuong, Liem Cong Tay and hill 46 (189-850).

ii. A line separating the villages of Liem Cong Tay and Dan Tham, and crossing R.N.I. [Route Nationale 1] at the culvert (2.5 km. southeast of Don Due).

iii. A line marking the boundary between the villages of Quang-Xa, Tien Lai and Tien Trao to the west, and the villages of Phan Xa and Le-Xa to the east.

This line shall cross the railroad track at 146-800 and then skirt hills 16 (136-804) and 15 (126-810), passing around the village of Thuy Ba Ha to the west, and rejoin the course of the river Ngon Dao at 112-816.

It shall then follow the course of this river as far as its source. It shall thereafter be defined by hills 52, 84, 146, 414, 776, 1023, 1254, 977, 1250 and 700, all points included.

Southern Boundary:

A line beginning at the hill at 281-771 and ending at the river Tan Yen at 241-754, skirting hills 10, 5 and 23 inclusively.

- i. The course of the river Tan Yen, as far as its junction with the river Cao Xa.
- ii. The boundary between the villages of Trung Son (and) Gia Binh to the south and Dong Thi and Kinh Mon to the north.
- iii. The course of the river Kinh Mon between points 154-750 and 110-731.
- iv. A line connecting the last-named point with the river Khe Muoc at 089-715, including the rice fields of Dinh Kuong and Thanh Khe.
- v. The course of the river Khe Muoc as far as 050-690.

- vi. A line defined by hills 330, 360, 415, 570, 624, 705, 828, 805, 895, 849, 808, 1028, and 442, including all these points.
- b. The northern and southern boundaries of the demilitarized zone shall be marked on the terrain by stakes, initially of wood, placed at conspicuous points, bearing the legend K F Q S.¹ These letters shall be written under each other, and painted in blue or black on a white background. The height of the stakes shall be at least 1.7 m. above the ground. To the east of Thanh Khe and Thuy Ba Ha, respectively, on the southern and northern boundaries of the demilitarized zone, these stakes shall be placed at intervals varying, according to the terrain, from 500 m. to 300 m.; to the west of these two villages, stakes conspicuously placed at intervals of 1 kilometer will be sufficient. At important crossroads, the stakes shall be replaced by signs bearing in full the legend given above. Each of the parties agrees to make and to post the stakes and signs on its side of the border.
